Edwards County.

Edwards county is situated one tier of counties west and one south of the center. county of the state of Kansasa. It is watered by the Arkansas river, which flows through the center, and by the Big Coon, Little Coon and Rattlesnake crecks.

Kinsley is the county seat and is the junction of two railroads, the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and the Chicago, Kansas & Western. Two bridges span the Arkansas river near Kinsley. The soil is a dark, sandy loam, from three to lifteen feet in depth, and rich in all the deposits that tend to make it fertile and productive to a high dayree. About one lifth of the surface is bottom land, rich and alluvial, and where water can be reached at from three to eight feet. The uplands are accesand while almost anything can be raised, it is probably better adapted for the cultion of wheat and corn than any other kind of product.
